

Spy Reported Married To Cohort's Ex-Wife

LONDON, Oct. 3 (AP)—Double agent Harold Philby has secretly married the Chicago-born ex-wife of another top British defector, Donald Maclean, it was reported here today.

The Daily Mirror said Philby, 55, and the former Melinda Maclean, 51, live in a luxury apartment on the outskirts of the Soviet capital after ending their previous marriages by divorce.

The Mirror's story followed newspaper reports describing Philby as having been Russia's most important agent in the West with an espionage record going back more than 30 years.

Philby, a longtime British intelligence official who fled to Moscow in 1963, is widely regarded as the "third man" who tipped off Maclean and fellow diplomat Guy Burgess that they were about to be exposed as spies in 1951. Both escaped to the Soviet Union. Maclean, now 54, still works in Moscow.

According to the Daily Mirror, Mrs. Maclean and Philby both won divorces, and she became Philby's fourth wife "in great secrecy."